CONFERENCE DIRECTOR MESSAGE

European International Research Academy (EIRA) aims to embark on interdisciplinary discussions on vogueish research approaches, latest research findings and practical experiences in the field of social and applied sciences. EIRA is strongly committed to promote global communication, knowledge sharing, and a strong bonding among scholarly community. Therefore, EIRA offer a unique platform for professors, experts, researchers, students, scholars, professionals and interested individuals to exchange and discuss the latest scientific inquiries, methods, and achievements on novel research and discoveries with each other.

The EIRA further aims to;

- Provide a common platform for scholars and professionals to share and gain knowledge in their area of interest by interacting with others.
- Organize workshops for the awareness of latest research approaches, trends, and tools.
- Establish and maintain a professional network among international scholarly community.

The founders of EIRA believe that growth of academic society is not only based on the continues enhancement of education and research quality but also dissemination of knowledge and activities that triggers emerging issues and challenges that need to be adequately addressed to create a sustainable society.

I am really thankful to our honorable scientific and review committee for spending much of their time in reviewing the papers for this event. I am also thankful to all the participants for being here with us to create an environment of knowledge sharing and learning. We the scholars of this world belong to the elite educated class of this society and we owe a lot to return back to this society. Therefore, through EIRA I anticipate research that can reflect upon on innovative solutions and trigger debates on existing and emerging issues to open new opportunities and avenues for a better and sustainable society.

Thank You,

Dr. N. Ain
Conference Executive
EIRA.

Attempts and obstacles to an alternative food network in Beijing: a case study on the community supported agriculture

Zheng Zong*, Yanqing Wang
Harbin Institute of Technology, Harbin, China

Abstract

The notion of Alternative food network (AFN) has been introduced into China for about a decade year. But the development of AFN is not as smooth as expected. AFN is not a simple process of self-management by farmers, but a process of cooperation between farmers, citizens, government and other stakeholders. AFNs of China is quite exotic, and what works well in one territory may not work well in another. While increasing attention has been paid to AFNs in China, little is known about what conditions are necessary for a successful project. To fill this gap, this paper aims to address the following questions: what are the conditions necessary for a successful project in China? What are the conditions necessary for farmers and citizens to participate in AFN? what roles can and does government play? These questions are addressed through analysis of a case of community supported agriculture (CSA) in Beijing. A framework of conditions for analyzing an AFN system is developed, and the conclusion is drawn that building mutual trust and collaborative networks is crucial for the success of AFNs. Furthermore, the success of collaborative networks depends in Beijing upon government intervention.

Assessment of temperament and character dimensions in patients diagnosed with depression

Anna Burkiewicz*

Medical University of Gdnask Gdnask

Abstract

The aim of this study was to assess temperament and character traits in group of patients diagnosed with depression. To evaluate temperament traits the Temperament and Character Inventory created by Cloninger was used. The study included 30 patients diagnosed with depression and 30 individuals from control group. The intensity of temperament and character dimension are different in the group of patients diagnosed with depression from those in the control group.
